This matter was the subject of conference at the Fair Work Commission on 9 October 2014.
The parties agreed to the following as the resolution of the dispute:

1. Australia Post confirmed that the safety kaizen program is not the general introduction of kaizen in the business hubs but a particular problem solving methodology which was utilised at the June workshop looking at particular safety issues. There is no current proposal for further workshops or kaizen process as part of this program.
2. The proposal arising from the June workshop process will be detailed in a briefing at the next NCC and there will be discussion about the role of nominated HSRs in the process of finalising any proposals.
